

Prof. Dr. Dipl.-Wirtsch.-Ing.
Arun Chaudhuri
Partner

Overview

Studied economics and electrical engineering at Darmstadt and Yale University, USA

12 years' professional experience in management positions and specialist areas

International experience

USA, India, Netherlands, China

Functions

Senior consultant, business development director, executive director, executive vice president for strategy/business development, director of business planning & execution, university lecturer

Operational experience

Corporate management

International IT outsourcing company (software development)

Marketing / business development

International smart-card technology company

Strategy / business development

International IT-services group

Process optimisation / strategy implementation

Leading international software manufacturer (ERP system)

Management consultancy

Strategic marketing and business development projects (internationalisation) for companies in a range of sectors

Professional career

After gaining a degree in economics and electrical engineering at the University of Darmstadt and doctorate at Yale University and the University of Darmstadt, he worked as a consultant and senior consultant for The Boston Consulting Group.

Following a post as business development director for Giesecke & Devrient, Munich, Germany, he established Mindworks Group AG, Munich (international outsourcing of software development) in 1998 and sold the company in 2003.

He joined T-Systems (Deutsche Telekom AG) as executive vice president (strategy/business development) in 2004.

After working as director of business planning & execution for SAP AG, Walldorf, he has been a full-time professor of international and corporate management at FOM (University of Applied Sciences and Management) in Munich since the end of 2007.

He also works as a corporate consultant and management coach.

